GEN. ROGER WILLIAMS TO INVADE TRIGG CO.

Gov. Willson to Carry the War
Into Africa.

WHOLESALE ARRESTS ARE PROBABLE

News came from Frankfort yesterday that Trigg county is to be occupied at once by a strong military force under Gen. Roger Williams, who will make his headquarters at Cadiz.

"An effort will be made to do in Trigg county what has been done in Calloway county, and it is believed by the civil authorities that with the aid of the soldiers they can convict many of the men who have been taking part in the raids by the night riders.

Ever since the tobacco troubles began in Western Kentucky there has been trouble in Trigg county, and the night riders have had things their own way there. The first act of the night riders which attracted National attention to them was the burning of the two stemmeries at Princeton, Dec. 1, 1906. The band which burned these stemmeries came from Trigg county mainly, it was charged. The band which raided Hopkinsville also Dec. 6, 1907, was pursued into Trigg county and it was believed that Trigg was the hotbed of the troubles. It was charged that a nest of night riders lived in Trigg county, and that this is the real seat of their power.

Now the State Government, backed by the military, is to go to Trigg county, the very seat of the disturbances, and try to break up the band which is called the parent organization of Western Kentucky. It is believed by the Governor that if the band in Trigg county can be broken up the night rider question will be settled at once and for all and everything will be peaceful in Western Kentucky.

What will be done when the troops get to Trigg county is a secret yet and will not be known until the county is actually occupied. The soldiers will be scattered over the whole county and will be well able to take care of themselves in a fight if the night riders should show force. It is said that the civil authorities have evidence enough to convict many men in Trigg county and that there will be a general scattering of the citizens of that county when the investigation begins. The authorities here will not talk about what they are going to do in Trigg county, but they expect to break up the night rider organization and tear it up from the ground, stem, root and all."

This dispatch in yesterday's papers has created a sensation. It has been stated here that not fewer than 84 men, or four companies of 20 men and a captain each, from Trigg and 42 men from Caldwell took part in the raid on Hopkinsville and that the officers have practically the complete list. Many of the men took part in raids on Princeton, Eddyville, Dawson and even Russellville. The names of suspected parties who went through this city on the night of the Russellville raid have been known since Jan. 3. When all of the warrants against Trigg and Caldwell county night riders are served there will be some eye-openers. Maj. Albrecht and Maj. E. B. Bassett left this city yesterday morning, presum-

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

LEOPOLD thought it rather more than possible that by the time of his return to Kronburg the chancellor would be as anxious to wriggle out of his proposal to visit the prince's hunting lodge as he had been to have it accepted a few hours before.

"He shan't escape his humiliation, though," the emperor said himself. "He shall go, and he shall beg forgiveness for his suspicious in sackcloth and ashes. Nothing else can satisfy me now."

Thinking thus, Leopold looked sharply from the window as his special alowed into the central station at Kronburg along the track which had been kept clear for his arrival. No other train was due at the moment; therefore few persons were on the platform, and a figure in a long gray coat, with its face shadowed by a plumed hat, was conspicuous.

The emperor had expected to see that figure, but vaguely he wished there were not so much brusqueness and self-confidence in the set of the massive head and shoulders. The young man believed absolutely in his love, but he would have been gratified to detect a something of depression in the one's air which he might translate as a knowledge of failure.

"I hope your majesty will forgive the liberty I have taken in coming to the station without a distinct invitation to do so," the chancellor's first words as he met the emperor. "Knowing that you would almost certainly arrive by special train, I came down from my house some time ago that I might be on hand without fail when you arrived to place my official carriage at your service. I thought it probable that you would not have seen to the palace and therefore it might save you some slight inconvenience if I were on the spot. If you will humor my poor convenience—"

"Don't let us delay our business for explanations or compliments, if you please, chancellor." The emperor cut him short brusquely. "I counted on your being here with your carriage. Now for the hunting lodge in the woods."

As he spoke his eyes were on the old man's face, which he hoped to see all change, but there was no visible sign of discomfiture. You, Brechtstein made no attempt to excuse himself from making the proposed visit. Evidently nothing had happened during the hours since the message by tele-go with you there, as I always have been and always shall be ready to serve you when I am needed."

It was on Leopold's tongue to say that it would be well if his chancellor's readiness could be extended to those occasions when it was needed, but he shut his lips upon the words and walked by the old man's side in frozen silence.

The carriage was waiting just outside the station, and the moment the two men were seated the chauffeur started noiselessly and swiftly.

Both windows were closed to keep out the chill of the night air, but soon Leopold impatiently lowered one, forgetting the chancellor's old fashioned hatred of drafts, and stared into the night. Already they were approaching the outskirts of the great town, and, dying past the dark warehouses and factories of the neighborhood, they sped toward the open country.

The weather, still warm the evening before—that evening of moonlight not to be forgotten—had turned cold with morning, and tonight there was a pungent scent of dying leaves in the air. It smote Leopold in the face with the wind of motion, and it seemed to him the essential perfume of sadness. Never again would he inhale that fragrance of the falling year without recalling this hour.

He was half dead with impatience to reach the end of the journey and confront the chancellor once for all, yet as the swift electric carriage spun smoothly along the white road and landmark after landmark vanished behind two branches faced with alarm something within him would at last have stayed the flying moments had that been possible. He burned to ask questions of Von Brechtstein, yet would have died rather than utter them.

It was a relief to the emperor when after a long silence his companion spoke, though relief which carried with it a prick of resentment. Even the chancellor had no right to speak first without permission from his sovereign.

"Forgive me, your majesty," the old man said. "Your anger is hard to bear, yet I bear it uncomplainingly because of my confidence that the reward is not far off. I look for it no further in the future than tonight."

"I, too, believe that you won't miss your reward," returned the emperor sharply.

"I shall have it, I am sure, not only in your majesty's forgiveness, but in your thanks."

"I'll forgive you when you've asked my pardon for your suspicious and when you've found Miss Mowbray for me."

"I have already found her and am taking you to her now."

"You've got to believe in your own story? You believe that this sweet and beautiful young girl is a fast actress, a schemer, a friend of your notoriously gallant friend and willing to risk her reputation by paying a visit uninvited to him at his hunting lodge in the woods? You are, after all, a very poor judge of character if you dream that we shall see her there."

"I shall see her, your majesty, and you will see her too, the mistress you call love has blinded the eyes of your body as well as the eyes of your mind. That she is now at the lodge I know, for the prince assured me with his own lips that she had promised to meet out one with him and I due."

"You mean he told you that his friend the actress had promised. I'll take my life even if he didn't dare to say Miss Mowbray."

"He said Miss Brett, the actress, it's true, but when he called upon her at her house, where he and I met to discuss a matter which is no secret to your majesty, he asked for Miss Mowbray. And the message that came down I heard. It was that Miss Mowbray would be delighted to see me, a royal business. This left no doubt in my mind that after giving out that she would leave today the lady had remained in Kronburg for the express purpose of meeting her dear friend, the prince, the handsome and best dressed young man in Europe—after your majesty, of course. And it was quite natural for her to hope that, as she was supposed to be gone and you were following her, this evening's escapade would never be discovered."

"Hence, spare us your deductions, chancellor," said the emperor curiously, "and pray understand now, if you have not understood before, that I am with you in this expedition not to prove you right, but wrong, and now you can say will convince me that the prince's actress and Miss Mowbray are one. If we find a woman at the hunting lodge it can't be the lady we seek unless she has been kidnapped."

yourself to swallow the better."

Thus snubbed by the young man whom he had held in his arms, an imperious as well as an imperial infant, the old statesman sought sanctuary in silence. But he had said that which had been in his mind to say, because he was satisfied. Meekness was not his meter, yet he could play the part of the faithful servant, humbly loyal through injustice and misunderstanding, and he played it now, because he knew it to be the one effective role.

He sat beside the emperor with bowed head and stooping shoulders which suggested the weakness of age, his hands clasped before him, and from time to time he sighed patiently.

As they glided under the dark arch of the Buchenwald Leopold spoke again.

"You have led me to suppose that our call at the hunting lodge will be a surprise visit to the prince. That is the case, isn't it?"

Count von Brechtstein would have preferred that the question had not been asked. He had intended to convey the impression which the emperor had received, but he had not cloaked it in actual statement. Luckily the prince was as clever as he was good looking, and he could be trusted as an actor; otherwise the old man would have been still more reluctant to commit himself.

"Were our visit expected we should not be likely to find the lady," said the prince. "The prince and I are on such friendly terms, your majesty, that he didn't mind confessing he was to have a pretty actress as his guest. He also answered a few questions I asked concerning her freely and frankly, for to do so he had to tell me only what the world knows. How could he dream that the flirtations or the visits of a Miss Jenny Brett could be of the slightest importance to the emperor of Rhaetia? Had he guessed, however, that the entertainment he meant to offer might be interrupted naturally, he would have taken some means to protect her from annoyance."

"This night's work will give him cause to pick a private quarrel with me if he likes," said the emperor, convinced of the chancellor's good faith.

"I don't think he will choose, your majesty. You are in a mood to be glad if he did, I fear. But, no, I need not fear. You will always remember Rhaetia."

few hours ago.

"From then I knew that when the real test should be applied my majesty's cool head would triumph over the hot impulse of youth. But, see, we're passing through the village of Insulien, fast asleep already, every window dark. In six or seven minutes at this speed we shall be at the lodge."

The emperor laughed shortly. "And another seven minutes to your debt, seven and we shall be out of the lodge again, with Chancellor von Breisteln a sadder and a wiser man than he went in."

"Meekness was once more the part for the old man to play, and, raising his hands, palms upward, in a gesture of generous indulgence for his young sovereign, he denied himself the pleasure of retort.

The hunting lodge in the wood, now the property of the chancellor's accommodating young friend, had until recently belonged to a Rheinish semi-royal prince who had been compelled by lack of sympathy among his creditors to sell something and had promptly sold the thing he cared for least. The present owner was a keen sportsman and, though he came seldom to the place, had spent a good deal of money in repairing the quaint rustic house.

Years had passed since the emperor had done more than pass the lodge gates, and now the outlines of the low rambling structure looked strange to him silhouetted against a spangled sky. He was glad of this, for he had spent some joyous days here as a boy, and he wished to separate the old impressions and the new.

Two tall chimneys stood up like the pricked ears of some alert crouching animal. The path to the lodge gleamed white and straight in the darkness as a parting in the rough black hair of a giant. The trees whispered gossip to each other in the wind, and it seemed to Leopold that they were evil things telling lies and slandering his love. He hated them and their rustling, which once he had loved; he hated the yellow eyes of the animal with the pricked ears, glittering eyes which were lighted windows; he hated the young prince who owned the place, and he would have hated the chancellor more than all had not the old man limped as he walked up the path, showing how heavy was the burden of his years as he had never shown it to his emperor before.

The path led to a hooded entrance, and, ascending the two stone steps, the chancellor lifted the mailed glove which did duty as a knocker. Twice he brought it down on the oak panel underneath, and the sound of metal smiting against wood went echoing through the house with an effect of emptiness and desolation.

Nobody came to answer the summons, and Leopold smiled in the darkness. He thought it likely that even the prince was not at home. A practical joke had been played on the chancellor.

Again the mailed fist struck the panel. An echo alone replied. Count von Breisteln began to be alarmed for the success of his plan. He thanked the night which hid from the keen eyes of the emperor-cynical now, no doubt, the telltale vein beating hard in his forehead.

"Don't you think, chancellor, that after all, you'd better try to take me to some more probable as well as more suitable place to look for Miss Mowbray?" he suggested, with a drawl intended to be as aggravating as it actually was. "There doesn't appear to be any one about. Even the caretakers are out courting perhaps."

"But listen, your majesty," said von Breisteln when he knocked again.

Leopold tilted his head and heard the drag of a heel on a floor of stone or marble.

ARTHUR GOEBEL TO WILLSON:

"I Ask You to Listen To The Requiem Of the Winds Which Chant

OVER THE GRAVE OF

William Goebel and Consider That His Life Was as Dear to Him as Theirs."

Frankfort, Ky., April 18.—Governor Willson did not get to the hall of the House of Representatives for the Howard-Powers pardon hearing until nearly noon, being detained by a meeting of the Capitol Commission. Attorney S. M. Wilson, for the petitioners, concluded his argument late Wednesday afternoon, so it was expected that the Commonwealth would follow.

Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin said that Arthur Goebel desired to say a few things to the Governor.

Mr. Goebel said that he desired to protest against the pardon of Jim Howard and Caleb Powers. He referred to the efforts of the defense to protect Henry Youtsey in the first trial of Powers, and yet, after he had confessed to flood him with charges in the following ones. He denied that it had ever been the purpose of the Commonwealth to defend Youtsey. It had always prosecuted him.

All Should Have Hanged.

"It is a disgrace to the State that Youtsey has not been hanged, and also that the other two have not been hanged," Mr. Goebel spoke earnestly and freely without passion and with the ease of a practical speaker. He took up the testimony of the new witnesses introduced at the last trial of Powers, dissecting their evidence carefully with the skill of the most finished criminal attorney. The large crowd in the hall listened breathlessly to every word of the brother of the murdered man.

Mr. Goebel said that in reference to the testimony of Col. Scott, which had not been given and had been referred to by the defense attorneys, he had gone to Col. Scott after his (Scott's) conference with Youtsey and asked him directly and man to man if Youtsey had admitted that he had fired the shot that killed William Goebel. He said that Col. Scott told him that Youtsey told him that he did not.

Appeal to Governor.

Mr. Goebel closed his appeal to the Governor with a peroration as eloquent and pathetic that it brought tears to the eyes of many. He said: "I protest against the pardon of Jim Howard and Caleb Powers. I refer you to the record in their cases and all kindred cases. I ask you to make an analytical and comparative study of the evidence of every witness who has appeared at every trial, so that the capability and the interest of every witness to tell the truth may be judged."

"The best criterion is not what I or they may say, but the evidence itself. The record shows that Powers is as guilty as can be. The world knows he is guilty. For eight long years I have assisted the Commonwealth in this battle. I have done nothing that was not strictly in conformance with the law. I ask you to let the law take its course."

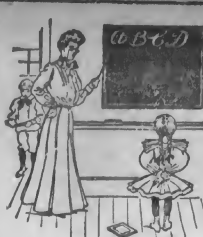

Not a Question of Mercy.

"There are those, many in number, and many have said it to me, that even though Powers is guilty he has suffered enough and should be pardoned. That is mercy. If this is to be a question of mercy, I ask you to listen to the requiem of the winds which chant over the grave of William Goebel and to consider that his life and liberty were as dear to him as theirs is to them."

There was silence throughout the hall for a half minute. Mr. Goebel turned and walked out.

Governor Willson then called upon Mr. Franklin to present his argument for the Commonwealth.

Robert Franklin spoke against the granting of the pardons and W. C. Owens for Powers. The latter will conclude his speech to-day and Gov. Willson then will take the cases under advisement.

THE FIRST LETTER

A Woman Writes.

THE FIRST LETTER that a sick woman should write or have some one write for her is to Dr. Pierce's, Buffalo, N. Y., asking him if "FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION" is suitable for her case, and he will frankly tell her so if he thinks it is. He may have to ask some questions before he can be sure just what the trouble is. If you are suffering from chronic disease the symptoms of which are headache, backache, dizziness, pain in various parts of the body, especially in the pelvic region, bearing-down, inflammation, ulceration, then Dr. Pierce will advise you to use his "FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION" for he has had a wonderful experience in the use of this remedy. It is not a PATENT MEDICINE but it is a VERIFIABLE PRESCRIPTION that became his favorite when he was engaged in private practice forty years ago and found that it cured more than ninety-eight out of every hundred of all such cases that came under his care. The doctor found scores and hundreds of women who were being improperly treated because their troubles were not understood, and he determined to place this remedy that he had used so successfully within reach of the multitudes who were in such dire need of it. He made it sufficient, agreeable to taste, and, best of all, safe for any woman, old or young, to use. It is neither a stimulant nor a sedative, it is a vegetable tonic, and invigorating, nervous, composed of native roots of remarkable medicinal virtue in the treatment of this class of diseases, and its remedy of women may take a million or more and make it to full confidence.

The one medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, the ingredients of which are printed and placed upon every bottle leaving the great Laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y., where it is made, is called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It Stands Alone not only in ingredients being known, but also in the only specific advertised remedy for women's diseases, which absolutely CONTAINS NO ALCOHOL.

It Stands Alone in the eyes of women, the makers of which take their patients fully into their confidence and tell them exactly what they are taking. This Dr. Pierce can afford to do, because his FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION is made of such ingredients and after a working formula that has thousands of cures to its credit, placing its merits above criticism.

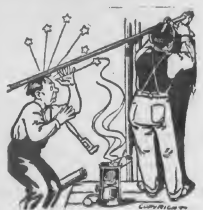

"I suffered with ovarian trouble for many months and was very much distressed as there was scarcely a day when I was not in pain. I had been told that I was suffering from a 'womb' and that I would try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I bought a bottle and after three months from what I considered was a very bad case, I was cured and very pleased with my recovery. Life looks different to me now, and I shall ever be grateful for the credit where it belongs—to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

PANIC AVERTED.

The Principal Announced a Holiday.

St. Louis, April 18.—One thousand pupils were quickly and speedily dismissed from the Blair public school when fire was discovered on the first floor. The fire started near a steam heating coil in room 17. The teacher, Miss Catherine Lewis, sent word to Principal Herzog and dismissed her pupils. Principal Herzog quickly visited each room and announced a holiday. Joyously the pupils fled out and did not know about the fire until they were outside and saw the smoke pouring from the windows of room 17. The fire was soon extinguished.

FRIENDS INDIGNANT

Over Treatment of Tennessees Man by Kentucky Raiders.

Burns, Tenn., April 18.—Information has been received here that E. C. Reeder, whose home is at this place, and who travels for a Western, Ohio, firm, was detained by masked men near Princeton, Ky., late Wednesday evening, and after being questioned was searched and deprived of his personal belongings. Then his coat was removed, and he was severely whipped, the assailants declaring they would have killed him had he not been under age. It is supposed that the night riders believed that he was connected with the tobacco company, which caused them to punish him. Mr. Reeder is one of the best families at this place, and the report is causing no little indignation here. It is further stated that $200 will be offered by his brother, J. E. Reeder, of this place, for the apprehension of the guilty parties.

FARMERS' WIVES TELL WHAT THEY KNOW ABOUT PE-RU-NA.

Peruna is Used in the Farmer's Home for all Sorts of Catarrhal Afflictions.

Mrs. Henry Martin.

Mrs. Anna Linder.

Mrs. Hettie Green.

Indigestion and Nervousness.

Mrs. Lenora Bodenhamer, R. F. D. 1, Box 99, Kearsburg, North Carolina, writes the following letter to The Peruna Drug Manufacturing Company:

"I suffered with stomach trouble and indigestion for some time, and nothing that I ate agreed with me.

"I was very nervous and experienced continual feeling of uneasiness and fear.

"I took medicine from the doctor, but it did me no good. I found in one of your Peruna books a description of my symptoms. I then wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice. He said I had catarrh of the stomach.

"I took Peruna and Manalin and followed his directions and can now say that I feel as well as I ever did.

"I hope that all who are afflicted with the same symptoms will take Peruna, as it has certainly cured me."

but now I am perfectly healthy. "I cannot praise your medicine enough, and I recommend it to others."

Catarrh of Stomach.

Mrs. Mary Allen, Route 6, Franklin, Tenn., writes:

"I am glad to be able to tell you that I am well of catarrh of the stomach, for which I am sincerely thankful to you for your advice. If it had not been for Peruna I would never have been well. "I had three physicians. One of them told my husband that he could not cure me.

"I had been sick about nine months when a friend asked me to try Peruna to gratify her; so I commenced taking it.

"I can eat and walk and work. Everybody says I look as well as I ever did.

"Oh, you don't know how thankful I do feel to you.

"I have got several other people to take Peruna. I praise it to everybody."

New Perfectly Healthy.

Mrs. Magdalena Winkler, Route 5, Westminster, Md., writes:

"I thank you very much for your advice. I can safely say that Peruna and Manalin have saved my life.

"When I wrote to you the first time, asking your advice, my condition was so poor that I did not expect to live through the winter.

"I cannot praise your medicine enough, and I recommend it to others."

For Children's Colds.

Mrs. Henry Martin, La Motte, La., R. No. 1, writes:

"After suffering for some time with sore eyes I was advised by a friend to try Peruna, which I did at once.

"The first bottle relieved me, and after using four bottles I was entirely cured.

"I do recommend Peruna to all who are afflicted with catarrh. I have found it to be a great remedy also for coughs and colds of children; a dose at bedtime will relieve them from coughing all night. I always keep it on hand, and recommend it."

Catarrh for Seven Years.

Mrs. T. Frech, R. R. No. 1, Hickory Point, Tenn., writes: "I am happy to tell you that I am cured of catarrh. I have followed your good and kind advice faithfully. I miss the day when I wrote you of my condition, and I will always praise Peruna. I think it is one of the greatest medicines on earth.

"Having been afflicted with catarrh and stomach trouble for seven years, and after having tried four different doctors they only relieved me for a little while. I gave up all hope of being cured. I only weighed one hundred and thirty pounds, and was so weak I could hardly get around the room.

"I was induced to try Peruna, and to my great surprise I am now entirely well. My weight is now one hundred and eighty-eight pounds, my health never was better in my life. I shall always praise Dr. Hartman and his remedies."

The Farmer's Wife.

Who is in a better position to know than the farmer's wife herself what is required in the farmer's home? She must meet its troubles, solve its problems, ward off disease, nurse the sick, she must do all these things herself, and she learns by valuable experience what is best and what is not best.

In numerous farm homes Peruna is relied upon as the family medicine. Peruna books are consulted in health and disease. Peruna is used as a preventive as well as a corrective in disease.

The wives of the farmers of the United States constitute a solid phalanx in favor of Peruna. Against this testimony the slanders of a few critics will not prevail. One sensible mistress of a farm home who has used Peruna knows more about Peruna than all the magazine critics in the world.

Peruna in Her Home.

Mrs. Anna Linder, R. F. D. No. 5, Dassel, Meeker Co., Minn., writes: "For two years I suffered with that terrible disease, chronic catarrh.

"Fortunately I saw your advertisement in my paper and I spoke to my sister about your medicine. She wrote to you and I got your advice free of charge. I took Peruna and am well and a mother of two children.

"I owe it all to Peruna. I would not be without that great tonic for ten times its cost, for I am well and strong now, and cannot speak in too high terms of its value as a medicine."

In a letter dated June 12, 1906, Mrs. Linder writes: "I cannot express my thanks enough to you for all the good your medicine has done for me and my family."

This spring I took cold and it settled on my kidneys. At first I thought it was kidney trouble.

"I took Peruna as directed on the bottle and in a few days I was all right, so I owe my health to Dr. Hartman and his remedy."

Miserable With Catarrh.

Mrs. Hettie Green, R. R. 6, Iuka, Miss., writes: "Last November I had catarrh, and felt so miserable, I thought that I would go into consumption.

"I tried so many doctors and medicines, but nothing did me any good, only Peruna.

"After I began the use of Peruna I began to improve in every way.

"My head does not hurt so much, my stomach is all right, my bowels are regular, my appetite good, my complexion clear, my eyes are bright, and I am gaining in flesh and strength.

"I think Peruna has no equal as a catarrh remedy."

MORE ARRESTS IN CALLOWAY

The Calloway Grand Jury at Last Finds the Missing Witness.

ANOTHER LEADER IS Captured Going In The Direction of the Tennessee River.

Murray, Ky., April 22.—Murray Harris, the night rider, who confessed and implicated prominent men in the band operating in the west side of Calloway county, was captured at his home by Constable Clint Drinkard and taken to Murray to appear before the grand jury. His testimony was almost essential to the success of the prosecution against the band in the Kirksey section, and threats of vengeance had impelled his own family to send him into exile. His home has been watched and the constable arrested him. He will not be allowed to leave the custody of the law until the prosecutions are over.

The arrest last night of Kelsie Kirk on Tennessee river on three charges of night riding was one of the most gratifying since the Calloway county grand jury first reported. Kelsie, who is a daring young fellow, was one of the first indicted, but he had fled to Trigg county, and was hard to find. His arrest by Robert Laster, a special deputy, also shows how well organized the forces of the county are under Judge Wells, Sheriff Edwards and Major Albrecht. Laster is one of the men patrolling the river, and he was to report when Kelsie Kirk had crossed into Calloway. Laster made the arrest himself at Callowaytown just as Kelsie was preparing to cross back into Trigg county. He had been visiting home folks. He was locked up in default of bond.

Kelsie Kirk is considered one of the most active members of the east side band. It is charged that he has participated in forcing a number to take the oath of allegiance to the night riders, and seldom failed when something was doing on the pike at night. He was at one time a street car motorman in Paducah and is well known in Calloway county and those adjoining.

Elmus Williams appeared in Murray and gave bond.

The fifty-two indictments returned are against thirty-three men, all members of the East Side band. It is understood that the leaders of that aggregation are all indicted, and the grand jury is now engaged in the cases of the west side.

The manner in which people who talk too much are spotted and men wanted are located for the soldiers to go after is gaining credence for the suspicion that a considerable percent. of the men in khaki are really secret service men.

ONLY IN FUN.

Two Young Men Admit That They Left Switches at Robt. Bronaugh's.

The bundles of switches to which threatening notes were attached, which were left on the porch at the residence of Robt. Bronaugh Saturday night, it has turned out were not the work of night riders. Edmund Fowler and a young man named Kennedy confessed to Mr. Bronaugh Monday that they put the switches there as a joke on Mrs. Bronaugh, who played an April fool joke on them April 1st. The authorities were making a vigorous investigation of the affair and in order to stop this the young men confessed. Fowler lives with Mr. Bronaugh.

This disposes of the only outrage that has occurred in Christian county since Feb. 26. Let us hope that all future ones will prove to be as harmless. It would be well enough, however, for everybody to realize that this is no time for such foolish-

DEMAND RESIGNATIONS.

Night Riders Go After Robertson Magistrates.

Carlisle, Ky., April 20.—Night riders waited upon Magistrates O. P. Overly and Reuben Dothan, of Robertson county, and requested them to resign at once, and they have done so. These magistrates had refused to vote for an appropriation for a new turnpike in the county. Magistrate Bradley has his intention of resigning before being asked to.

The night riders also requested Road Supervisor Bruce Massey to resign his office, which he immediately did, which will leave the county without any magisterial government until others can be commissioned by the Governor.

CITIZENS ON GUARD

In Lyon County Now That Soldiers Have Left.

Kuttawa, Ky., April 20.—Since the call of the soldiers from Eddyville to Murray to offset the expected raid on that city Saturday night by the night riders, several citizens in different parts of the county have taken up the patrol work of the soldiers, and at night have been traveling about in various directions, sufficiently armed, it is believed, to protect themselves and to suppress any raid. While everything seems quiet in the county at present, the people are more or less uneasy, as there might be an outbreak at any time, since no one has been arrested for being in any raid in this county.

D. Z. Nicholas, a Larue county grower, received a warning Tuesday that he must not raise any more tobacco. He secured bloodhounds and is attempting to track the men who left the warning.

Gen. Roger Williams will be sent to Western Kentucky to take command of the State troops there. He held a conference with Gov. Willson, at which the night rider situation was thoroughly canvassed.

Eighty-nine citizens of the Kirksey neighborhood in Calloway county have published a card in the Murray Times publicly pledging their support to Judge Wells in his fight against night riding. The Times is doing good work on the side of law and the good people of Calloway, like the good people of Christian, are determined to put down lawlessness in every form.

Forty citizens, reported as night riders, have warned two magistrates and the road supervisor of Robertson county to resign on account of a failure to make certain roads.

Begins Seventeenth Continental Congress.

Washington, April 20.—The seventeenth Continental Congress of the American Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution convened here today in Memorial Hall, with an unusually large attendance. The congress will be in session for six days.

As this is an "off year," the exciting scenes incident to the election of a head for the organization will not be gone through with. The selection of ten vice presidents-general and the discussion of proposed amendments to the constitution will, however, afford considerable interest for the delegates.

Among the vice presidents-general whose terms of office expire this year and whose places are to be filled are Mrs. Robert Emory Park, Georgia; Mrs. Sally Marshall Hardy, Kentucky; Mrs. Ira H. Evans, Texas; and Mrs. A. E. Heneberger, Virginia.

A number of social functions will be given in honor of the daughters during the week. On Thursday President Roosevelt will receive them at the White House.

UNION MINERS' LEADER KILLED

Jas. D. Wood Meets Death In a Desperate Street Duel.

HIS BROTHER WOUNDED

They Fought With Three Former Policemen of Central City.

Central City, Ky., April 22.—Jas. D. Wood, for many years president of District 23, United Mine Workers of America, was shot and instantly killed last night in a fight in which his brother, John Wood, and John H. Magan, a former policeman, were also wounded.

The fight occurred on the platform of the Illinois Central railroad station and grew out of political troubles between the Woods and three former policemen who were recently let out of the city's service, largely through the influence of James D. Wood, who was a member of the board of councilmen.

Twenty Shots Fired.

Nearly twenty shots were fired. The two Woods on one side and Jas. Jenkins, former chief of police, and Walter Hardwick and Magan, both formerly members of the police force, on the other. The five men met on the platform and are said to have quarreled violently for some minutes before the shooting began. Who first drew a weapon is not known, but after the first shot, nearly every man in the party emptied his revolver.

James Wood was shot once in the neck and a second time in the heart, the bullet causing instant death. John Wood was twice wounded, one ball entering the stomach and a second lodging in his arm, but it is believed that he will recover. Magan was shot in the leg, but the wound is not serious. The other two men were not wounded.

Prominent in Union Circles.

James D. Wood was for many years the head of the union miners' organization of Kentucky and also took a prominent part in the general union labor movement throughout the State. He was a forceful, energetic leader and displayed much ability in enlarging the membership of the union and in obtaining favorable contracts from the mine owners. Several years ago he was defeated for election as the president of District 23 and since then had lived quietly at his home in this city. He was married and leaves several children.

The shooting created tremendous excitement in Central City, where all of the participants have been in the public eye for some time.

MINERS AND OPERATORS'

Work in Central District To Be Resumed Under An Agreement.

GET EIGHT HOURS A DAY

Both Sides Express Satisfaction Over the Recent Outcome.

Toledo, O., April 17.—The 200,000 idle miners in the central competitive district will go to work next Monday. An amicable agreement between miners and operators was reached today by members of the Scale Committee, and this was later ratified by the joint meeting of the miners and operators. Both sides are satisfied with the result of the convention, and the conference adjourned with the best of feeling between the two parties to the controversy.

The terms of the agreements provide for a general resumption of work throughout the district next Monday. The adoption of the old rate of 90 cents a ton for mining coal; a referendum vote to be taken by districts and a call of the committee to resolve the returns of the vote, the referendum being on the proposition to make the agreement for two years; a uniform screen of one and one-fourth inches; an eight-hour day; the referring of all local differences as to prices and conditions to the districts for settlement; on invitation to Illinois operators to join the next convention and that the next joint interstate conference be held in Toledo in February, 1910.

Miners and operators are delighted with the outcome of the conference and declare there is now a more harmonious feeling between miners and operators than has existed in years.

Gave His Life For a Kitten.

New York, April 17.—Ten-year-old Dominico Bello gave up his life for a pet kitten yesterday, being crushed under a large electric truck as he tried to rescue his pet. The kitten was unharmed.

Edward Flaherty, who was running a truck of the New York Edison company, stopped in East Thirtieth street. As he turned on the power to proceed again, the kitten leaped from the arms of little Dominico, who was playing on the sidewalk, and ran under the truck.

Thinking only of saving the animal's life Dominico plunged under the moving vehicle. One rear wheel passed over the chest, killing him instantly.

CANDIDATE for SHERIFF.

Walter Holland Will Seek Office in Calloway.

Paduach, Ky., April 17.—Walter Holland, one of the men who is rendering great assistance to County Judge Wells and Sheriff Edwards in rounding up night riders in Calloway county, will be a candidate for sheriff. He is a brother of John Holland, the deputy sheriff, and formerly was sheriff himself. He was acquitted about two years ago of a murder charge, growing out of the killing of Hardy Keys at Murray, in one of the most sensational and hard-fought cases in Western Kentucky.

PEACE REIGNS

New Organization Formed By Tobacco Planters.

Owensboro, Ky., April 18.—The Green River Tobacco Growers' Association is the name under which the tobacco growers of the counties of Daviess, McLean, Ohio, Breckinridge and Hancock are now organized. These growers, who formerly constituted the American Society of Equity and a very large percent of the independent growers, are in the organization and there is every prospect that the Home Warehouse Company will shortly join the forces. Officers have been elected, a constitution and by-laws adopted, and all of the preliminary work has been done.

These things were done at an enthusiastic meeting of growers who form the Green River district at the courthouse today. There were over 800 growers in attendance. The constitution adopted is the result of the work of a committee representing the regular American Society of Equity, the Home Warehouse and the Independents. The following officers were elected to duty: Henry Berry, of Daviess county, president; S. R. Ewing, of Daviess county, vice president. The members of the board of control were selected from the counties in the organization. The action today removes all probability of trouble in the Green River district.

REELFOOT LAKE IS CAPTURED

By Night Riders and Fishermen Are Driven Away.

DOCKS ARE DESTROYED.

Resented Decision of Court That Put Property Under Private Control.

Fulton, Ky., April 18.—It developed that the destruction by fire of the property at Reelfoot Lake, one of the most noted fishing resorts of this section, and perhaps in the South, was due to "night riders" who destroyed the fish docks, storehouses and cottages surrounding the famous resort.

The masked men, about thirty in number, went to the store of John Shaw, forced that gentleman to sell them a supply of kerosene oil, and requested him to deliver some at the park fronting the lake, which he did without question. After marching from the store to the park in an orderly and quiet manner, the dock was saturated with oil and the torch applied, and one by one the buildings were visited until their destruction had been completed, after which the participants withdrew from the premises.

The beginning of the Reelfoot Lake troubles date back some fifteen or twenty years when Major J. C. Harris first announced to the citizens that he had acquired a title to Reelfoot and undertook through the courts to establish his rights and obtain control, and this far-famed resort has been in litigation ever since. At one time the Supreme Court rendered an opinion vesting the title of certain portions of the lake in Col. Harris' name, and then the fishing privileges of the lake were leased. Notwithstanding this decision by the highest court, a large number of people living in the great lake country have clung to the belief that said lake belongs now, as it always has, to the State of Tennessee, and that no man had the right to say who should or should not fish for pleasure or profit there, and some of the citizens have continued to do so.

The crowd of masked men notified all present that all fishing for profit on the lake must be discontinued and no more business transacted until the lake is declared to be the property of Tennessee and everybody allowed the same privileges, and business stopped. The fishermen, about one hundred in number, tied up their boats, others left the lake and for the first time in many years there is nothing doing at Reelfoot.

The Fulton Fishing Club has disbanded and many pleasure seekers are disturbed over the affair. Thousands of people visit this lake every year from all parts of the country, and a number of fishing parties had been arranged here for a visit to Reelfoot at an early date.

Since the burning of the property, which is leased by J. C. Burdick, threatening letters have been sent to Mr. Burdick with threats drawn thereon, followed by epigraphic inscriptions not calculated to make one feel good. It is learned from a reliable source that Mr. Burdick will pay no attention to the anonymous letters other than to exert every effort to bring the guilty to justice.

All kinds of anonymous letters are being received by citizens of Fulton county, but no threats have been carried out.

Everybody's For May.

No one should fail to read "The Slaughter of the Trees," Emerson Hough's astounding statement of facts that appears in the May number of Everybody's. It blazingly exposes the corruption and wastefulness that is allowed to exist in our forestry conditions, pointing out the disastrous result of our soon having no trees at all.

Hamlin Garland gives the second of his series describing his own experiments, and those of great foreign scientists, in the field of physics research; it is full of extraordinary and amazing developments. Dr. William Hanna Thomson contributes "The Real Self and Drugs," presenting some vital physical and medical truths in an entirely new light; while Ernest Poole, in "A Clearing-House for Tramps" gives some insights upon the industrial tramp and what is being done for him. Verse is particularly strong this month. Grace Hazard Conkling is the author of a charming series, "Rose Rhymes from a Child's Garden in Mexico," illustrated in color by Eugenie Wireman. Dr. S. Weir Mitchell contributes "Friendship," and there are poems by Archer M. Huntington, Elsie Grahame, and Arthur Stringer. In fiction, too, the May number is fortunate. "The Loyalty of Willie Binmie" is a fine study by Maximilian Foster, and Eugene Manlove Rhodes' "The Awaited Hour" is a remarkable story, full of vigorous action. In lighter vein are James Hopper's "The Fishing of Suzanne" and "The Prodigal," by Porter Emerson Browne; while O. Henry's "The Head Hunter" is one of the most delightful things that he has written for many a day. Bessie R. Hoover has a simple love-story "Across the Fields," while to the "Little Stories of Real Life" the contributors are Alice Louise Lee and Fanny Antid Simons. "The Players," "A Row of Books," and the usual departments of "Straight Talk," "Chestrut Tree," and "Publisher's Column" conclude a really remarkable number.

RAILROAD AND TRAMPS.

Ernest Poole Represents a Hobo's Own Story of the Part the Railroads Played In His Becoming One.

"I was raised," said "Buffalo Scotty," "without a sound, on a farm in Illinois. Beside me there was only Dad, an' a thunderin' grouchy old dad at that. I ain't blamein' him. Me mother had always run the whole train, kept the lamps lighted; an' when she died, Dad had no reason for keepin' alive, so he shet up an' just worked. He gave me the habit so deep that even now it keeps comin' on me like appendicitis. An' when it comes, it takes maybe three weeks on a steady job to cure it!"

"Well, when I was fifteen, a railroad was bein' built ten miles north of the farm. I kept teasin' Dad to let me take a day off to see it; but the more I teased the tighter he froze. At last one afternoon in August, I was mendin' the fence in the lower corn-field, the wind kept blowin' the engine's whistles over the hills, an' every time them whistles came I felt me own steam risin'. At last I quit work. I jest stood and listened. An' about one minute later I was a hobo for life—wid legs curtin' air! I've stuck to the camps ever since. When I go to a city I generally get loaded an' lose all me pay inside of a week. Twice I've been rolled, which means held up, an' me roll [money] ripped out of me pants. Once they took most of the pants with the roll. But I ain't kickin'. An' I don't want no home, nor to be saved by no woman."

"You asked me how I came to be a hobo, an' I've give it to you straight. There's been a lot of talk about farmers' kids who run off wid circuses. Jest you take my tip. For runaway kids the real hot circus ain't no common elephant game. It's the railroad.—From the May Everybody's."

Apples for Sleeplessness.

The apple is such a common fruit, says a medical writer, that very few persons are familiar with its remarkable efficacious medicinal purposes. Everybody ought to know that the very best thing they can do is to eat the apples just before retiring for the night.

Persons uninitiated in the mysteries of the fruit are liable to throw up their hands in horror at the visions of dyspepsia which such a suggestion may summon up, but no harm can come even to a delicate system by the eating of the ripe and juicy apple before going to bed.

The apple is excellent brain food, because it has more phosphoric acid in easily digested shape than any other fruit. It excites the action of the liver, promotes sound and healthy sleep and thoroughly disinfects the mouth. This is not all; the apple prevents indigestion and throat disease.—London Globe.

ESCAPED LUNATIC

Walks to Simpson County and Attempts Suicide.

A dispatch from Franklin says: "Sheriff Bryan today received word by telephone that Walter Hendricks, an inmate of the Hopkinsville Asylum for the Insane, had escaped from his keepers, and, having walked barefoot the entire distance, had stopped at the home of John Boyd. Hastening to the scene Sheriff Bryan found that Hendricks had become violent, and seizing an ax had attempted to crush his own skull. This is the unfortunate man's second attempt at suicide, the first having been made here several months ago, after he had been legally pronounced insane. The means then employed was a pocket knife. He will probably recover."

SEVENTEEN CONVERSIONS

SOME FINE SERMONS.

Evangelist Neighbour a Ferocious Pulpit Orator Who Pleases Immensely.

Rev. R. E. Neighbour is proving to be one of the best preachers who has been in Hopkinsville for years. His sermons twice a day at the Baptist church are models of their kind and the crowds at night continue to tax the capacity of the church. He preached on the dance of Salome before Herod Tuesday night and the discourse was one of the best of the series. At its conclusion there were about a dozen conversions. So far 13 have joined the Baptist church, one the Christian church and Tuesday night two announced that they would join the Presbyterian and one the Methodist church. The meeting is growing in interest every day. The great trouble is that the church will not hold the crowds and many young men who are apparently interested are unable to obtain seats in the building. Dr. Neighbour is an evangelist of rare power and persuasive eloquence and earnestness. The singer, Mr. Ruby, supported by a fine chorus, is giving much satisfaction as musical director, and is introducing some very beautiful new songs.

The meeting will go ahead as heretofore, with services at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Important Features

The reason for this grand free distribution of awards is simply to advertise the Kimball Piano. The W. W. Kimball Co., the largest manufacturers of pianos in the world, desiring to impress the name, "Kimball," indelibly upon the minds of all who may now or at some future time need a piano, makes this great offer. It is the custom these days with many manufacturers to spend large sums yearly in expensive magazine advertising. The Kimball Company prefer to advertise their pianos in a more direct way, going straight to the people and offering these awards. The advertising results are thus obtained for the Kimball piano, and the people benefit to the extent of thousands of dollars. The W. W. Kimball Company was one of the first to establish the one-price system. Kimball pianos are sold the world over at a uniform price. They are always marked in plain figures at their lowest selling price. Purchasers of Kimball pianos always have the assurance that they get value received, their dollar going just as far as any other's. They are also assured of a genuine reduction to the full amount their certificates may call for. Kimball pianos are sold on the easy payment plan if so desired.
